This Stockman Is Making Good Money

We are proud to boast that a local stockman should top the Winnipeg market twice in two years. It speaks well for both the stockman and our district.

W. J. Forran has just returned from Winnipeg with a net return of $1092.04 from the sale of eighteen steers. The gross receipts for these steers being $1225.79

This is the highest price paid at Winnipeg during the past six months, the steers being purchased by the Omaha Packing Co., who paid $4.50 for one steer, $5.00 for another, and $5.60 for the balance of sixteen.

There is a constant demand for the superior beef animals, Mr Forran informs us, and it pays to produce only the very best. Mr Forran emphasizes strongly the necessity of good breeding all the time, taking particular care as to the selection of the sire. He crosses Herefords with Shorthorns—using principally Shorthorn cows and Hereford sires. In fact the Hereford stock is descended from the J. A. Palmer herd. Mr Forran tells us that this class of stock produces a profit all the time, and further, this district is the best district in the west for raising stock. Here we can produce to the best advantage the "short keeps" so greatly in demand.

A "short keep" is one which can be taken to the cornbelt and profitably finished in a few weeks. Such animals being in greater demand than those requiring longer periods, whilst inferior stock is distinctly unprofitable to all parties concerned.

Throughout our interview with Mr Forran he insisted on emphasizing the absolute necessity of good breeding in the foundation stock, and that it is a profitable thing to raise good animals because they were in constant demand at the top market price.

Edgerton Echoes

Threshing has been pretty much at a standstill for the past week, the rain and hail soaked the stooks and made the grain quite tough.

There seems to be a very great difference in yields, even on the same farm, it would be very interesting to know the cause. What a different story we would have to tell if the weather man had changed July and August the other way round. Would there not have been some record yields? As it is we hear of grain yielding 28 bushels.

Duck hunting is all the rage at present and those enthusiastic hunters are patiently waiting to hear the familiar honk of the goose, whiling away the intervening space until that time arrives, with a little practice on the big mallards, which are reported as being rather scarce.

The Agricultural Society held a successful meeting on Saturday evening cleaning up the final business of the recent fair.

Large shipments of fruit are coming forward daily and the busy housewives are putting down the necessary preserves for future needs.

Inspector Gamble of the Bank of Montreal spent last week in giving that institution the once over.

Mrs. D. Milne was a passenger on No 2 Sunday.

George Morrow and Murray Murdoch left last week for Winnipeg to farther pursue their studies. We wish them success in those studies and also hope to see Murray repeating his success of last year in his favorite winter pastime, hockey.

Considerable work has been done on our skating rink and more needs to be done in order that a perfectly level bottom be prepared for the first flooding. It is easier to do this now than after freeze-up. We would like to see every encouragement given to the young people in fostering Canada's national winter pastime and nothing would be better than a first class sheet of ice. It may seem that we are hastening the season but time seems to slip by very fast and the first thing we know we will be in the first grips of winter

Our genial drayman, Dave must have had the idea that he had one of those great big trucks for his deliveries for he piled on a load of coal that would fill an average cellar and Well, the underpinning just seems to have scissored and Dave's big load just naturally went down, and there it is. No one was hurt that we have heard of so we suppose he will just have to fix things up and shovel that coal over again. A drayman's life isn't all sunshine.

When we started out to write these 'echoes' we had nothing to say or write about and here we are, Mr. Editor, still writing about it and encroaching on your valuable space.

R. Hulland is the busiest man in the world these days and he will be rewarded on Tuesday by one of the best school fairs ever held. All supplies and notices have been sent out to the different schools and a nice day is all that is needed to round out a very successful fair.

BUFFALO KILLING PLANT INSTALLED AT WAINWRIGHT

Wainwright Star: Owing to the fact that the buffalo in our National park are increasing in such great numbers each year it has been found necessary to slaughter some of the animals each year. To this end tenders are being called for the supply of the materials for the erection of a big slaughter house and other materials required for the erection of a big slaughter house and other buildings within the park precincts.

Splendid Display At Chauvin School Fair

Monday last, September 11th, was a red letter day in the history of the scholars at the various local schools, it being the occasion of the Chauvin and District School Fair. The children, one and all, had a regular field day. Not a little of the enjoyment was caused by the keen desire of each school to excel all others.

It was great fun after the drive to town to meet the other schools, compare notes, and play games, not to mention the anticipation of winning more prizes than the other fellow,—wondering all the while whether if after all you haven't been beaten to a finish.

Loads of exhibits began to arrive early and continued until the inevitable "almost too late" one came along. Just as soon as these exhibits could be classified and gotten ready for judging, the judges began their labor. We may say that they had no light task to perform owing to the large variety and many entries. The judges deserve our warm thanks for the careful and thorough work they performed, their awards being entirely satisfactory in every way.

Shortly after two a procession was lined up and a parade made around Chauvin. The honor of leading was given to a smart bunch of boy and girl riders from the Edinglassie school and followed closely by a float decorated prettily with prairie trees and shrubs, and carrying the junior scholars. Butzeville had a most excellent patriotic float, using prairie foliage, decorated with red white and blue, in a charming design. Airle was there in a prettily bedecked wagon bearing a legend in bold letters "Airlie." St Aubin also had a pretty scheme of decoration. Pennants bearing a big "K" denoted the Killarney float. Chauvin came last, led by four girls carrying the flag, whilst in their centre two lads carrying the school banner. The whole forming a good parade. Merry indeed we the paraders with their lusty school yells, in which each endeavoured to excel the others.

The exhibits possessed an all round general excellence and together made a good showing that indicated much careful work had been done in preparation. The plasticine work by the juniors was very true to form and the prizes awarded were certainly well earned. Artistic talent is certainly developing in our youngsters if we take the drawings, crayon and color work as a criterion. Some excellent work with the needle was in evidence though the number of exhibits appeared smaller than last year.

Possibly the greatest value in the fair is to develop the knowledge of those practical things inseparable from rural life. Stock raising, vegetable and grain growing, flower culture, destruction of pests and weed—last but not least the art of cooking, are all such subjects as these and each had a strong showing at the fair. The list of prize winners will indicate the most successful of the children, but much merit is shown by many exhibits that failed to gain an award. There is little to fear for the future if we can be successful in keeping these clever boys and girls on the land in our midst when they grow up.

Amongst the vegetables the carrots as a class show the greatest uniformity of excellence, being closely run by the beets, potatoes also doing well but fewer in number. Turnips bore the signs of the dry summer weather. Grains generally were of the highest standard. All the foregoing would have done credit to adult exhibitors. The same may be said with equal emphasis of the livestock showing.

The cakes, candies bread and preserves made an excellent display, be not only attractive in appearance but also well made and cooked. A few more pies might have been shown, this section being the weakest.

In the matter of weed seeds, no less than 21 identified varieties were displayed, by Edinglassie; Chauvin showing 18. Rors had a good display of pressed flowers and plants. Whilst the collections of insects by the Chauvin, Edinglassie, Killarney, S. Aubin, and Prosperity form the nucleus of a good instructive exhibition of these creatures.

IT IS EASY TO MAKE A SPEECH

It is easy to make a speech if you are running for office. They all run about as follows:—

Mr Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen: Were it not for the persistent insistency of my friends, I would to-night be at home with my family. (Lie No. 1.) I have never been a seeker after political honor, having always preferred to remain in the background, humbly doing what I could for my party. (Lie No. 2.)

But ladies and gentlemen, after many insistent demands on the part of my friends, and not until my wife became fully convinced that it was my solemn duty to aid this country in its struggle against bad government and oppression did I get the consent of my own mind to enter this race (Lie No. 3.) I have no political ambitions to satisfy. I crave no greater boon than to be at home with my wife and children (Lie No. 4.) My sole and only purpose in entering this race, is to render service to a long suffering citizenry. I promise you now, that if I am elected and I will be elected (Lie No. 6.) that your taxes shall be reduced (Lie No. 7.) My opponent in this race is no more qualified to fill this important office than I am to enter the pearly gates (Lie No. 8.) Now, ladies and gentlemen, I know that you are of more than ordinary intelligence (Lie No. 9.) and I know that you will, without further talk on my part, recognize my eminent fitness for this office (Lie No. 10.) and I have shown you that my opponent is not worthy of your consideration, (Lie No. 11.) and that when the votes are counted, I will be elected by a very large majority. (Lie No. 12.) Applause.

THE BULL DIDN'T KNOW

A story is told of a certain man who thought everybody knew or ought to know him. One day he was walking through a field when a bull addressed him in an undertone, and made for him with his head down.

He was a man of dignity and political power. But he ran. He ran surprisingly well and reached the fence before the bull. He clambered over out of breath and dignity, and found the owner of the bull contemplating the operation.

"What do you mean, sir," said the irate politician, "by having an infuriated animal like that roaming about the field?"

"Well, I suppose the bull has some right in the field," said the farmer.

"Right? Do you know who I am, sir?" gasped the politician.

The farmer shook his head

"I am the Right Honorable Sir —"

"Then why on earth didn't you tell the bull?" said the farmer.

Don't Smile At These

A lecturer was holding forth on the subject of matrimony.

"Mine has been an ideal marriage," he exclaimed (while those whose marriages had not been ideal listened with pained interest). "My wife and I share our sorrows, our joys, our ambitions, our hopes, our —"

"What about conversation?"

"Say, Bill, they tell me you've just had your appendix taken out," said a friend.

"That's a fact," replied Bill.

"Serves you right! You should have had it in your wifes name."

After being conducted through an old church by the verger, a visitor was so pleased with the official's courtesy that he insisted on giving him a dollar. The man shook his head sadly.

"Thank you, sir," he said, "but it's against the rules."

"I'm sorry for that," said the visitor, about to return the coin to his pocket.

"But," added the verger, "if I were to find a coin lying on the floor, it would not be against the rules for me to pick it up."

A visitor from America was introduced to an old Scotsman.

"From what land do ye come?" asked the Scotsman.

"The greatest in the world," replied the American.

"Puir bairn," ye've lost your accent"

Moody and silent he sat alone—alone in that crowd of jovial, chattering people.

Suddenly he became conscious that she was near him—she for whom he waited and longed. Would she stop and speak to him? Just one word was all that he wanted. One little word—"Yes!"—and he would be satisfied.

She was coming nearer—nearer!

Now she was at his side—young, graceful, sweetly. Gently she bent over him.

"Yes," she breathed faintly.

His heart sang a song of thanksgiving; his eyes shone.

"Apple-pie, please, miss."

"Faith, it's curious," said a travelled Irishman the other day, "how these little disease insects do be called in different places. In Germany they call em germs; in Paris, parasites and in Ireland we call 'em mike-robes"

The visitor patted little Fred on the head and inquired how he was getting along at school. "I suppose you can spell almost everything?"

"Yes, sir."

"Can you spell your own name?"

"Yes, sir."

"Can you spell 'Constantinople'?"

Aw, go on, sir; that's a foreign language!"

"I suppose, Henry," said the old gentleman to his new son-in-law, "that you are aware the cheque for $1,000 I placed among your wedding presents was merely for effect?"

"Oh, yes, sir," was the cheerful rejoinder, "and the effect was excellent. The bank cashed it at once without a word".

An Irish soldier was asked if he had met with much hospitality in India.

"Oh, yes," he replied, "too much; I was in hospital most of the time."

Kisses that are kisses cannot lie.

Father: "I never smoked when I was your age. Will you be able to say that to your son when you grow up?"

Willie: "Not with such a straight face as you do, father. You beat me there."

Watchmaker: "Did your watch stop when it dropped on the floor?"

Dodd: "Yes; did you think it would go through?"

Contributor: "What do you think of my last poem?"

Editor: "Well, I'm glad to hear that it is your last."

Canadian Dollar Reaches Par In States

Discount, Starting Aug. 15, 1915 Has Run As High As 16½; Trade
Improvement And Good Crops
Are Causes Of Change

The Canadian dollar is once again at par in the New York market. "Par" was the quotation announced by the New York Banks August 30 for the first time in seven years. August 15th 1915, was the last date upon which Canadian dollars were on even terms with those of the United States in this market. During the interval the discount rate soared to as high as 16½ per cent.

The position of the Canadian dollar has been gradually improving during the past year, due largely to Canada's greatly improved trade position. For the past six weeks it has been practically at par, the discount rate being nominal, ranging from 1-16 to 1-8 of 1 per cent. At many border points however, the Canadian dollar has been accepted at 100 cents value for some time past.

Trade balances obtaining in favor of the United States in the final months of 1921 were reversed in January of the current year through a decline in exports to Canada. From that time until the present trade from the Canadian standpoint has improved steadily with figures for the four months ended July showing a balance of $7,011,000 in favor of the Dominion.

While Canadian financing in New York and London during the past five months has not been very extensive, it has been sufficient to care for Canada's invisible import items, according to information here.

Sources in touch with international finances give several other reasons for the return of par of the Canadian dollar. Among these are:

A large demand for Canadian dollars is anticipated during late autumn.

Several large international issues are expected to be marketed shortly and it is expected that foreign investors will participate to a large extent.

The outlook for a bumper wheat crop and the heavier demand for Canadian products as a result of the strike in the United States are also important factors in the situation.

Photography from the air is possible now by means of a special arrangement of kites and camerae, designed by a Frenchman. The camera travels up the kite string by means of special lifting planes, while an automatic timing device takes pictures at any height.

New Brand Act Now In Force

Commencing with the first of this month the new brand act was put in effect.

By the tariff of fees it will be seen that the inspections are lowered, and also that the country inspection has been done away with, except where cattle are to be shipped out of the province, when, by giving the department five days notice, they may send inspectors down to look over the stock.

In the summary of the act which is given below, most of the points of importance are covered. Shippers are particularly directed to the necessity of sending a proper description of the brands on their cattle in to the inspectors, as for each animal wrongfully described there is a fine of $25.

The act says:
All stock upon entering and also upon leaving any public stock yard, or abattoir, or place where stock is held for feed rest or sale, where there is an inspector, must be inspected by him.

No fee shall be payable in respect of any such stock upon entering any abattoir, if a certificate of inspection shows that such stock has already been inspected upon the day of such entry.

Cattle cannot be loaded from any yards where there is an inspector unless the have been inspected by him.

Show the Inspectors
No certificate shall be issued unless the shipper shows to the inspector a memorandum setting forth the age, sex, brands, color and markings of each animal, and the name and address of the person from whom the same was purchased.

One of these certificates shall be attached to the waybill of the shipment and surrendered to the consignee another kept on file, and the third followed to the live stock commissioner.

When stock is placed in a car at a station where there is no railway agent, the provisions of the previous section shall apply, save that the statement need only be made in duplicate, one copy being handed to the conductor to be attached to the waybill.

When Not Inspected
Where stock has not been inspected by an inspector it shall not be loaded until the shipper has given to the railway agent a statement announcing that he is shipping the stock, and giving particulars as to the age, sex, brands and other information as required. This statement shall be made in triplicate, one to be attached to the waybill and surrendered to the consignee, another kept on file by the agent, and the other sent to the live-stock commissioner.

Out of Province
No stock shall be shipped out of the province until the owner has sent to the live stock commissioner by registered mail a notice to reach him five days ahead of the proposed shipping date, stating the classes of animals to be shipped and the places of shipment and destination. The live stock commissioner may send an inspector to the place of shipment, who will have authority to inspect the animals.

Driving Cattle
When the owner of any stock proposes to drive such stock from one point to the other in the province, distant 20 miles or more, and when he proposes to drive them outside of the province, he shall send a notice to the commissioner, who may send an inspector.

Any stock being driven to or from a forest reserve shall be inspected by the inspector if there is one accessible at or near that entrance of the reserve which the stock is approaching.

Where purchased stock is not branded with the purchasers recorded brand he shall secure from the vendor a bill of sale, giving all particulars and description of the cattle.

Butchers, Hide Dealers
Butchers and hide dealers shall take out a license. Every butcher shall keep a record of all cattle slaughtered, from whom obtained, with the age, brand, sex and markings of such cattle.

Auction Sales
Stock sold at public auction or private sales which has not been on the premises where sold for at least 30 days, shall not be removed until an inspector or brand reader gives a certificate.

Fines
Contravening any of the provisions of the act is liable to a fine not exceeding $100.

Any shipper failing to furnish to an inspector a correct list of brands on cattle being shipped by him shall be liable to a penalty of $25 per head for each animal wrongfully described.

Rub lamp globes with paper slightly moistened with coal oil. It will clean them, and make them less liable to crack.

Suede shoes should not be cleaned when damp. Leave until dry, and then brush very lightly with a fine wire brush.

Legal Holidays And Telephones

LEGAL HOLIDAYS
The following is a list of legal holidays observed by the Alberta Government Telephones:

New Years Day, January 1st;
Good Friday; Empire Day May 24th;
Dominion Day July 1st; Labor Day;
Thanksgiving Day; Christmas Day December 25th.

If any of the above holidays fall on a Sunday and are officially held on the following Monday, that Monday shall be considered a holiday.

The hours of service on holidays are as follows:

The office open for service from 10 a.m. to 12 a.m. and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sundays 10 a.m. to 12 a.m. only.

Irons will not stick if, when you make your starch, you mix with it one lump of sugar and a shaving of candle or white curd soap, or a few flakes of lux.

Save the water in which potatoes have been boiled and use it for washing silver. It will make spoons and forks bright and remove stains.

A teaspoonful of coal oil in a tubful of clothes ready for washing will lighten the work. The same amount in each quart of boiled starch will improve the gloss, and will also prevent the irons from sticking.

Experiments show that red glass bottles preserve milk best in hot weather. Plain glass turns milk sour, and brown or black bottles breed germs by keeping the milk at a high temperature.

Editorial Comment

ACTION AND REACTION

Following every period of over-exertion and excitement, say the doctors, comes a period of exhaustion and depression. From personal experience, most of us have already learned the truth of this pronouncement, even though we have not yet learned to safeguard ourselves and to conserve the vital forces of our own systems, thereby weakening our defences against the ravages of epidemics and diseases. Nature in her supreme wisdom inflicts the burden of weariness in order that we may follow the instinct to rest, and thus fit ourselves for further and more efficient effort—an effort in which the errors of the past may be corrected.

COMMUNITY RE-ACTION

What is true of the individual is also true of the community, which is but the collection of individuals. We venture to believe that at the present time our community life is suffering a somewhat severe attack of exhaustion and depression, or in a word the vigor of our social spirit is seriously impaired. There may be room for difference of opinion as to whether it is chronically diseased or not, but there are few who will not confess that it is in an unhealthy condition.

A COMPARISON

The state of community life today may aptly be compared to that of an individual whose nerves are all on edge. Such persons are easily irritated, irascible and hard to please. It is a matter of difficulty for them to maintain continued purposeful effort. It is no easy matter for other persons to work with or for them and have pleasure in doing so because of a lack of harmony which breeds dissatisfaction and distrust. We regret that there is too large an element of dissatisfaction and distrust in our community life of today.

WHAT ARE THE CAUSES

Having thus described the symptoms, it might be well to seek for the cause that we may be the better able to effect the necessary cure. It may be that there are several contributing factors to the cause of which, at least, some may be identified. Without any shadow of a doubt the experiences of the past few years are largely to blame. We were stimulated to efforts larger than would ordinarily have been necessary and desirable. We bought too much land, we cultivated too large fields, costs and prices flew upwards beyond all reason; whilst for returns we have suffered lack of profits and we are, one and all, virtually bankrupted. Singularly whilst these unusual efforts were being made there has been a distinct lack of real progress—during the past three years there has been no building of the houses and stables we so sorely need, little or nothing has been done in the matter of public improvements. Bank balances have been depleted, debts have increased, prices of our products have fallen far more than the prices of the goods we need. Is it any wonder then that our community life and spirit stands today at a low ebb.

NARROWED OUTLOOK

When one's efforts are by force of circumstances diverted from progressive effort towards a strenuous effort to preserve one's self from financial disaster it is but natural that he should narrow his outlook upon life; and community spirit cannot prosper upon narrowed outlooks. It is but human also that as a class becomes class conscious there should be a tendency towards class selfishness and class antagonism—a condition common to the partially developed, and which is often overcome as healthy maturity is reached.

AGGRAVATING FEATURES

Having thus reviewed what we consider as the probable cause we now note a few of the factors that aggravate the unhealthy condition. The first of which is our lack of ability to upbuild our homes to a desirable standard or to furnish same because of the heavy economic pressure. The erection of consolidated schools for the educational and social development of our young people, and the provision of hospital accommodation for our sick are all prevented. The absence of music and the drama together with the lessened interest in sports and amusements also deter the upbuilding of social community life. There is an evident lack of enthusiasm towards all matters of public concern and welfare.

WHAT THE CURE

The matter of effecting a cure next demands our attention. This is not so easy a matter as might be, but is by no means impossible of attainment. The pictures we have drawn are black enough but the condition is far from hopeless, there is plenty of power of recuperation in the patient yet. For all his sickness he has a good sound heart, he is still able to take nourishment, and with a little time and care he will be around again as good, or better, than ever. The tonic of a little more profit for his work is absolutely essential but must be coupled with rest and relaxation to be effective.

Now discarding the metaphorical method of speaking we mean to say that in many respects our social community life has been slowly deteriorating during the past while (possibly so insidiously that we have not noticed it) and the time has come when we should bestir ourselves to act in a social community sense "Each for All and All for Each."

Observations Made On Our Trip To British Columbia

THROUGH THE ROCKIES

Passing Lake Louise station we note the overflow from the lake pouring down the face of the cliff like a silver cascade. Later we see Mount Stephen standing guard over the Great Divide, some six miles further on.

THE GREAT DIVIDE

The Great Divide may truly be called the "Backbone of Canada." Here at a 5298 ft altitude the train passed between the mountain tops from Alberta to British Columbia. The boundary being marked by a pretty rustic arch under which flows a stream. This small but rapid stream is one of the greatest freaks of nature to be found in this world. Coming from the glaciers above it parts into two streams: one flowing eastward (the Bow river) finally reaches the Hudson Bay and the Atlantic; the other flowing westward (Kicking Horse river) empties into the Columbia river and finally into the Pacific ocean.

THE SPIRAL TUNNEL

Now leaving the Bow, we follow the Kicking Horse river, and it very amazing to note how quickly the stream becomes a mighty river. At Mt Hector (Wapta Lake) we note a granite shaft erected in honor of Sir James Hector who discovered this pass. About here the train was stopped and the brakes of the train most thoroughly inspected, for we are at head of a very steep edcline. It is no small praise to the C. P. R. to state that this section of the road (on both the old and new grade) is one of the most free from accident in the whole world.. In fourteen miles we have to drop 1226 feet (nearly a quarter of a mile). The old grade was one of 4.5 per cent, and required four locomotives to haul a train up. The new road is a grade of 2.2 per cent and two locomotives can handle an heavy passenger train up the grade. To reduce the grade it was necessary to lengthen the track: this being done by the construction of spiral tunnels. At short distances from each other we note semaphore signals which appeared to work automatically; and if we observed correctly there were automatic contact signals which recorded at the despatchor's office the passing of the train at that point.

The valley now widens through the junction of the Yoho river, and northward can be seen a vista of glaciers, mountain tops, and deep valley. Our track clings to the mountain side, and below parallelling us we see two other tracks, both of which we shall later traverse. Before us stands as a barrier the sheer granite pile of Mount Cathedral towering above us. The train plunges straight into the face of ist barren slope through a tunnel 3255 feet long. In this tunnel the train turns a complete circle and emerges quite close to the entrance some 54 feet lower. We have reversed our direction and continued to descend the same mountain slope. Before us stands Mount Ogden into which (Continued from preceeding page we tunnel after crossing the Kicking Horse river and making a quadrant curve. This tunnel is 2900 feet long and forms three quarters of a circle and we emerge immediately under the track we have travelled, but 50 feet lower. Now we resume our westward journey: above us we see our two tracks. Before us again far up on the steep sides of Mount Cathedral not far from the tunnel we see the mouth of a silver mine, and what appears to be a goat track leading up to it. How a man could get up there and discover silver was hard to imagine. But infinitely more difficult it must have been to bore those tunnels. Without any standing room for the necessary measuring instruments each of these circular tunnels were drilled from both ends, and so accurate was this work that the error in each case was less than one inch.

THE KICKING HORSE

Looking across the river we observe a strange natural marking on the mountain side at the head of a slide. This marking accurately resembles a man mounted upon horse-back: the horse appears to be standing on three legs, the fourth leg being in a kicking position. Thus the river and pass received the name of "Kicking Horse." Still descending we soon arrive at Field

Field nestles right under Mount Stephen, and is a divisional point. It is the gateway for the Yoho Park and a number of other resorts.

THE HOODOOS

Leaving Field we notice a great great variation of mountain formation of which Mts Vaux, Chancellor and Goodside command our attention: The gorge here opens out somewhat and a broad valley is traversed. At Leacholl we see more "hoodoo" pillars. Well may they be called "hoodoos" for they stand like guards at the entrance to the canyon we are about to enter. In this Kicking Horse Canyon (for we still follow the river) the sides of the mountains drop like precipices to the very edge of the water. The river roars as it rushes and dashes over continuous rocky rapids. For over ten miles we traverse this deep shadowy canyon. As we rode on the flat observation at the end of the train it seemed that we were but pigmy people riding a pigmy train so great was the awe inspired by vertical rocky walls under which we were now travelling. Our road being a narrow ledge scarcely wide enough for the train, tortuously following the continual widenings of the steam. At places the stream tured too sharply and a bridge had been built from which the train plunged direct into a tunnel very frequently. Presently, and without warning, we emerge into the broad valley of the Columbia river at Golden.

Memorial to Early Explorer Takes form of Primitive Fort

"KOOTENAY HOUSE," RESTORED HUDSON BAY POST AT INVERMERE PT. ON LAKE WINDERMERE, B.C.

Visitors to the tourist region about Lake Windermere in southern British Columbia, will find a reminder there of early days. The Hudson's Bay Company is building a replica of their first post in this region. It was known as "Kootenay House" and was built by the intrepid astronomer and explorer, David Thompson, in 1806 on the shore of lovely Lake Windermere. David Thompson, a pupil at Blue Coat School in London, was released to the Hudson Bay Company for the sum of five pounds sterling. The company sent him to Canada where he was outfitted and sent up the Hayes River with a party. In 1795, he with three companions, two of them Indians, made their way from Hudson's Bay to Lake Athabasca. On his return to York Fort he was informed that the company would make no more explorations and that he was out of a job. He did not allow this to discourage him but set off immediately with two Indians for Grand Portage where he obtained an appointment as astronomer for the North West Company whose headquarters were at that point.

As astronomer he visited the company's various posts and while in the Lake-of-the-Woods region in Manitoba, located the source of the Mississippi River. Many years were spent in surveying the western wilds, travelling by dog team and canoe. The winter of 1807-08 was spent at Kootenay House with his "little family," as his Indian wife and children were termed. In October, 1810 he set out to trace the Columbia River from its source to its mouth and was the first white man to do this, arriving at what is now Astoria, Oregon, in July, 1811. The trip was accomplished despite great perils. Thompson died at the age of 87, poor and unappreciated. Posterity has recognized its debts to this brave man whose sixteen years of work for the Company make him one of the most notable men of that period.

The new post will be an exact duplication of the one built by David Thompson and is in the nature of a memorial to the brave man for whom the mighty Thompson River was named. The fort will add another attraction to this popular valley around which are ringed many natural wonders such as Toby Canyon, Horse Thief Glacier, and Lake of the Hanging Glaciers. Guests at Banff and Lake Louise will find a motor trip over the newly opened Banff-Windermere Road, a pleasant outing with Lake Windermere Camp ready to serve them luncheon or tea.

Our past ministers fetched foreigners into Canada with promise of protection and equality as the native born.

Came the Great War and the general election of 1917. Large numbers of naturalized subjects were disenfranchised by the co-called Union ministry of that day.

Further, an arbitrary date was set. Just why an alien created a subject prior to say, 1902 would be any more loyal than one accepted later is rather hard for an intelligent person to comprehend. An oath of allegiance is meant to cover a subject's actions regardless of when taken. Many children born of these parents served overseas and some lie buried in France and elsewhere. Many have taken the highest honors in our colleges and professions. Baker says that final figures show a very small percentage of disloyalty among the foreign born from 1917-18. There are people who are law-abiding in all classes of the community and there those who are trouble-hunters in all classes. I sometimes believe our foreign born are better behaved than some native born Britons I know. When statesmen deliberately and specifically appeal to the lawless instincts of human nature for political purposes they certainly expect it to bear evil fruit.

Under the inconstant and uncertain leaderships from which Canada suffers, a condition of hysteria has been born in the public mind—has indeed been systematically and carefully cultivated by our government, its press and its plat-form agents. Under such conditions anything is liable to happen. Politics starts it and the people for the bill. Our Federal Ministry does nothing to make aliens love Canada. What can you expect then? But it is unfair to assume the majority are disloyal. Facts prove the contrary. The election act of 1817 is the most damnable political outrage ever sprung upon the electorate of a would be self governing Dominion.

It is hard to figure why our foes call Mr. Spencer "Boss" controlled.

Our Provincial organization has got for its unit the local club. Each club sends one or more members to our Provincial or Federal conventions. The people who compromise our clubs—all who are loyal may join—elect the delegates in regular session. They are named and elected by the people they represent. The delegates in turn name the nominee. Each year the people in convention may amend their constitution if they wish. Yes, the M.P. is governed by recall. But a recall petition must be signed by a certain percentage of the electorate, not merely farmers. If his conduct is unsatisfactory he is not re-indorsed. But he must be re-elected by the whole people, if they don't like him they don't need to elect him.

At present, I understand, an M.P. cannot be forced from the commons during his term. The idea of the signed recall is to establish a principle which will later be enacted by law.

Then, too, we have local clubs in many of our towns and cities so that townspeople may have something to say about who is going to run. If they are prejudiced and stay away it is their own fault. This is because we have no primary law and the peo-

REPLY TO DISGUSTED

Edgerton, Sept. 4th 1922
To Editor of Chauvin Chronicle.

Dear Sir:

A recent contributor to your paper apparently a disgruntled, and it would seem, rather a choleric mortal, who parades his views under the smoke screen of "we" whatever that may be had their funny-bones tickled by what seemed at first glance to be an attempt by Director Tooth to throw the kindly camouflage of a so-called explanation over Bro. Spencer's questioned (?) procedure at Ottawa.

He says that "us"—the poor souls offended—do not mean to hint that Mr. Tooth is thereby giving an exhibition of that variety of good which rushes in where timid (clown lovers please notice) M.P.'s fear to tread, rather the two U.F. officials seem to be side-stepping a direct answer to the real issue at stake, and establishing a precedent (by condonation) for all sorts of getting "round the law" stuff. Mr. Spencer has, consciously or unconsciously, made himself an accessory to what looks like an ugly affair to nobody but the "us" which styles itself "Disgusted". He is pictured as a loss-controlled jack-in-the-box agent who dances prettily, or jumps like a deer, whenever the string of recall is pulled. He is not accused of breaking the law but only of sponsoring a petition which was held to aid former enemy subjects at the expense of our returned veterans, as well as those who fell overseas and the nation generally.

The writer does not know the ex-artillery men under fire, but the G.W.V.A. may rest assured that neither Mr. Spencer nor the U.F.A. in common with the rest of the Canadians have the slightest intention of promoting the interests or protecting an unfair policy, subjects of a previous nationality whose presence is found hurtful to the Dominion.

But disgusted should understand that our present policy of immigration was inaugurated by a selfish, short-sighted, cold-blooded, set of systematic liars who have repeatedly advertised Canada as a land overflowing with milk and honey.

Their sole desire is to skin the rabbit alive and turn him loose to starve. Sir Clifford Sifton recently boasted that we ought to fill Canada with a peasant class whom the iron heel would keep so busy at work they would not have time to think or study. They have pulled the wool over the eyes of the older set but they are afraid of the younger men. Hence their desire to send millions overseas to get butchered. But millions are still left and they demand a better life. And you bet we are going to have it. The more the system opposes us the more bitter will be the penalty when the end comes. Progress, which is a law of nature, does not bow to mere ple would otherwise be deprived of their political rights. A primary law is most essential for the cities. In time it will govern the political end entirely. Our present system of group election cannot last. A broadening out policy for our political needs is absolutely necessary to the welfare of all.

The U.F.A. was intended for an economic and social institution to educate the agrarian element so they bring their views as did the miners, mechanics, coal workers etc. before the parliament of the day. It was not created a political party.

Our old parties would not take he lead and we had to. Somebody had to start the ball rolling. The largest largest single force and the most abused—the Agrarians—drew the straw.

But the U.F.A. and the Farmers' Party are two distinct Units. Regardless of the party's fate the U.F.A. must continue as a purely Agrarian economic group force. Unorganized force as unorganized force commands no respect. Farmers had to organize because other groups were doing so. So long as the agrarian element worked purely as individuals through the old political parties politicians did not complain as they could use this blind force to help defeat any progressive move afoot. The politician has now lost his trusty whip—the farmer vote—hence the jeers and curses we receive. We wish to work with other groups, not dictate to them. We want live agents to represent us, not rubber stamps and marplots. Direct control of public offices is not a perfect thing by any means. Nothing mortal is faultless. But it has prevented a good deal of autocratic deviltry and given us a better electoral system than before. We can improve upon it and will do so. We cannot deal with new immigrants save upon an individual basis, not as Imperials, Jugo-slavv, Germans, etc. We do not want them on any other condition. We have various civil units which represent various group views. They should be reasonably employed by the dissatisfied. We will not tolerate a military clique, official or otherwise. The G.W.V.A. should start a counter petition and present it in the usual formal way. An M.P. has no roght to cause prejudice either way. The right of petition to parliament is an important part of democratic government. We would as lief serve one kind of autocracy as another—I mean we won't serve any of them.

The Harp in Canada

From time immemorial nature has been a source of inspiration to the poet. The majesty of the mountains, the serene beauty of the forests, the charm of rivers—all seem to have the effect of moving poetic souls. Canada, with its wealth of glorious scenery, is therefore naturally the home of poets, and, indeed, it has been said that one cannot throw a snowball without hitting one.

The Canadian school of poetry is essentially a nature school. Bliss Carman, Charles G. D. Roberts and Archibald Lampman have set the standard, and a very high standard it is. Probably nothing in Canadian literature has been more quoted than Bliss Carman's "Low Tide on Grand Pre," a poem which breathes the spirit of nature as felt on the lovely shores of Nova Scotia. The modern Canadian poets are following in the footsteps of these writers, but going further afield, as the facilities for travel throughout the great Dominion are extended. Thus, for instance, in a neat volume of poems by a young Irish-Canadian poet, M. A. Hargadon, the scene changes from Ireland to Nova Scotia, Quebec, and the Canadian Rockies. Here is a charming verse from a poem about Lake Louise:

"This lake is God's best picture;
that is why
He hung it on the mountains at the sky
And set it in so beautiful a frame:
Art galleries of heaven have none
the same."

This is the closing verse of a poem inspired by the majestic beauty of Banff:

"There is no lovelier place to live
And when at last I die,
I think my soul will go to Banff
Instead of to the sky;
For here there is no sorrowing,
No suffering nor care,
And, up so near to paradise,
It seems enfolded there."

The French-Canadians are described as:

"Branch of a splendid race transplanted here Illuming life through all this lovely land."

In Nova Scotia Mr. Hargadon is inspired to write lines that are particularly happy:—

"God writes His poetry to-day:
I see the flashes of His hand
On distant hills, along the bay,
All through the fair Acadian land."

"His book is every scene about,
There are a million happy
lines:
The sweetest I have chosen out
Beneath the steeples of the pines."

Many of the poems are about Ireland, a country which has given Canada many good settlers, and no doubt, will give many more. Here is a verse from one:

"Young April is in Ireland now,
I wish that I were with her
there,
For she is far the loveliest
Of all the Aprils anywhere:
She has the sweetest voice and face;
She has the brightest gowns to wear."

Irish and Canadian poems are illustrated with attractive photographs of scenes in Canada and Ireland. With St. Patrick's day approaching, and with Ireland now taking her place amongst the nations, the book is likely to create a wide interest at the present time, as it appears at a particularly opportune moment. It is prefaced by a sympathetic introduction by Colonel George H. Ham.

Irish and Canadian Poems are issued by The Modern Printing Company, 39 Dowd Street, Montreal. Price, one dollar.
